

Aloha mai kākou e nā hoa makamaka,

Ka‘iwakīloumoku would like to update you on the new cultural content posted to the Ka‘iwakīloumoku Virtual Archive: <http://kaiwakiloumoku.ksbe.edu>.

There were a few new additions to the Virtual Archive in the months of January and February 2010.

Take a look at Dr. Keanu Sai’s presentation, “Myth of Ceded Lands,” along with Dr. Davianna McGregor’s and Dr. Jon Osorio’s “Kua‘āina: Country Wisdom and Lifeways.” Each video clip now has the full-screen feature to enhance readability. Please visit the following link to view the new recordings: <http://apps.ksbe.edu/kaiwakiloumoku/kalalaola/lectures-and-panel-discussions>.

Enjoy the wonderful array of healthy recipes and traditional family dishes in Makali‘i with 3 new recipe ideas for a hearty Hawaiian menu; chicken long rice, sweet potato soufflé, and poi palau. These new recipes can be viewed at <http://apps.ksbe.edu/kaiwakiloumoku/makalii/recipes>.

Our kūpuna profiles feature kupuna Howard Ackerman of Kalamawai‘awa‘awa, Kona Hawai‘i, sharing his recollections of his childhood and traditional fishing practices. His profile can be viewed at <http://apps.ksbe.edu/kaiwakiloumoku/ola-na-iwi/ackerman>.

Please feel free to share this information with your students, fellow colleagues, family, and friends.

We welcome new recipe ideas, mo‘olelo kūpuna, and any other type literary work. If you would like to share some of these with us, please contact Ms. Kristy Perez-Kaiwi, Managing Editor / Cultural Resource Specialist at krperezk@ksbe.edu or (808) 843-3594.

Mahalo,
